

"A Female Life"

(Linda Marie Fischer)

(Phil Fischer)

[Chorus]

It's time to be,
and it's time to see,
a female life
set free.

Rising above
my station in life.
Forcing myself with all my might.

I become the master
of my realm.
Nothing overwhelms,
I'm finally at the helm.

[Repeat Chorus]

I feel the wind at my back.
I'm right on track.
No way will I disappear.
There is nothing to fear.

I am daring now,
and I'll never allow,
life to be wasted
or not to be tasted.

Sailing fast sailing far,
I listen for the Siren's sounds.
I steer past those into the light and the magic of my feminine life.
Even among this life's din
I am stronger than the old sin
of sinking cold and deep,
encrusted in the sea,
surrendering my reverie.

"A Female Life" (continued)

(Linda Marie Fischer)

(Phil Fischer)

[Repeat Chorus]

The white heron stands at the shoreline between me and the divine.
And it says with its eyes
the truth on which I rely.

You are the sun, the earth, and the sky.
Never question that or ask why.
Time is the release.
Time gives peace.

[Repeat Chorus]

[Repeat Chorus]

[Repeat Chorus]