

"Dancing in Times Square"

(Linda Marie Fischer)

(Phil Fischer)

[Chorus]

Heart and heartache,
dancing in Times Square.
My life's spinning in the air.

[Repeat Chorus]

The lonely dandelion lawn
left me alone with each dawn.
It was all green, still I had to go.
I was so low.

I came to the city to find my way.
Where you turned was who you were.
Each street was an arch in the dark.
Shadows like lances cut their mark.

[Repeat Chorus]

[Repeat Chorus]

Ev'ryone finds their way in the relentless pounding fray.
Hot punch, no lunch, friends for a day.
You drain your cup and fill it up,
kind of like growing up.

This is the secret, take it all in.
Strut over your fears and empty years.
Listen to the horns and see the sights.
Dream big down Broadway's white lights!

[Repeat Chorus]

[Repeat Chorus]

"Dancing in Time Square" (continued)

(Linda Marie Fischer)

(Phil Fischer)

Now I've said I've been there, oh, oh, oh.
Exactly where this town made me go, oh, oh

New York there's no place for me like you.
You're a pew in the church I came to.
To know, to grow, not worry about the rest.
I've already passed your test.

When I go away, I'm not on track.
There's no one like you, you've got my back.
Two feet on the ground I commit.
New York you've done your bit, I'm where I fit.

[Repeat Chorus]

[Repeat Chorus]
